Arbor Day.

An elaborate Arbor Day celebration was held at Mountain Road School for colored pupils on Easter Monday, the exercises consisting of music, addresses and the planting of shrubs and rose busics in the school Yard.

The office of School Superintendent Jackson Davis looks like a church parlor before the annual Christmas sale. All sorts of handlwork are on exhibit, from which selections are being made for the Henrice school exhibit at Jamestown.

Among the most notable pieces of handlwork of original design are an ornamental hearth broom, made from a single stick of white oak, and an elaborately made split busket, woven of whitted sticks of popiar, neatly colored. Both of these pieces are the work of Nehmiah Harris, colored, twelve years of age, a pupil of Hagan School, in Varina District. The exhibit of raffia and woven work is particularly good.

Miss Lillian Brown and Mr. Lewis W. Womack were married on Monday night at the residence of the bride, on Church Hill Avenue. The ceremony was announced to take place at 8:30 P. Finally Rev. P. S. Throckmorton, of Fulton, was secured, and in the presence of a few friends the ceremony took place at 11:30 P. M.

Light Committee Recommends Award to Stacy Co. at Its Bid 01 $310,000.

The Street Cleaning Committee of the Council now christened the "Spotless Town Committee," has agreed to take four street flushing machines on proval from the St. Louis firm which manufactures them, and to manufactures them, and to pay for the four, if they prove satisfactory on a month's trial, the sum of $4,100. This step, of course, is subject to the giproval of the Finance Committee. The action of the committee last night is the result of the persistent night is the result of the peasacht efforts of Superintendent Henry J. Cohn to introduce this method of effective street cleaning. The machines will each flush about one and a third miles of street, or in all, more than rescrition, appropriating $25,00 for sweepers, sprinklers, etc., and another offered by Mr. Umlauf, asking an appropriation of $15,000 for additional employes of the Street Cleaning Department, indicates clearly that the termittee is in carnest in its determination to have the city cleaner this year than ever before. It is signifcant of this determination that every of this determination that ever member of the committee last night worded to order the flushing machines on approval. No other business of importance was acted upon by the com-

A model of one was shown to the committee recently, but as stated at the time the members were not enthusiastic on the subject. It is likely, however, that another crematory will soon be established in the central portion of the city so as to shorten the haul of the garbage carts, and thereby expedite the work.

Restore Old Bell.

The Committee on Markets met last night, and in addition to considerable routine business, adopted a recommendation to the Council that $1,000 be appropriated for granollthic paving around the Old Market, for repairs and for an electric striker to connect with the old bell formerly located over the old police station, so that it may again strike the hours and sound fire alarms. This bell Is perhaps the oldest in the city, and has been greatly missed by residents of that vicinity since the partial demolition of the old market-house.

Many Burials. Many Burials.

The Council Committee on Cemeteries falled of a quorum last night, as did several other committees. This provision would operate to limit the capacity of the building at horse shows to the seating capacity of the building, which is itself curtailed by the removal of seats to widen aisles, and the removal of other seats which prevent free access to the fire escapes. Gas Works Contract.

The Committee on Light has recommended to the Council the award of the contract for complete rehabilitation of the Gas Works to the Stacky Manufacturing Company, of Cincinnatt, the lowest bidder for the work. The amount of the bid is $310,000, which covers everything except laying mains for conducting gas through the streets. This recommendation will probably come up for approval tomorrow night.

The committee heard a delegation of coffee roasters representing four firms in advocacy of a reduced rate on gis to large fuel gas consumers. These gentlemen quoted figures showing the large consumption of gas in their business, and urged that in consideration of this fact and the further fact that the city was making a handsome profit from the works a lower rate should be offered them to encourage such industries.

The committee maned a subcommittee consisting of Messrs. Gunst, Richardson and Phillips to inquire into the matter. Statistics produced by Inspector Shelton, of the gas department, show that eight firms consume more than $100 worth of gas begin the form the works a lower rate should be offered them to encourage such industries.

New Officials at Work.

Treasurer William B. Frayser and Deputy O'Bannon were found hard at work yesterday in their office at the county courthouse. Both officials had their coats off and sleeves rolled up, and were busy checking over the list of tax tickets made out by former Treasurer Huchler. It will probably be several days before the new officers will have their papers in shape to do business satisfactorily.

The limit on the payment of poli taxes as a prerequisite for voting in the fall election is May 8th, and Treasurer Frayser will rush the preparation of tax tickets, in order to afford as long a time as possible for the citizens of the county to quality for the election.

Politics is becoming an interesting topic of conversation about the courthouse, and many inquiries are being made with regard to transfers and registration of young men and recent comers to the county. The primary this fall will be the first election held in the county since the recent annexation, and there is some anxiety as to the readjustment of certain neighborhoods. effect upon the life of the community. Said he, in discussing the subject:

"The law has had a simply wonderful effect. As an instance of this it may be stated that not one single appeal case is on the docket this term, whereas heretofore there have been many of them coming from the Police Court.

"Although the population of the city has increased from 86,000 to 115,000 or 129,000 as a result of annexation, there has certainly been a decrease of 40 per cent, in crime, estimated even on the 86,000 population basis.

"This talk about more drankenness since the early closing law went into effect is all nonsense. The most respectable barkeepers of the city are in favor of the law and are glad it has been caseted."

There is reason to believe that the court shares this view, although Judge Witt would not discuss tho matter for publication. The opinions of the Commonwealth's attorney, the chief of police and others are in accord with the statements quoted.

In this connection it may be well to note that the time for application for inquerileenses begins this month. These applications will probably be made at the latter part of the April term, and an opportunity will then be afforded to all who wish to protest against granting a license to any person.

The court grants licenses to sell liquor on the preponderance of testimony as to whether the applicant is a fit and proper person, and as to whether the place is a suitable one for the sale of liquor. If the bar be in a residence section or adjacent to a school or church which objects to its location, this is the coportunity for protestants to be heard. If a majority of creditable and disinterested wifnesses testify in opposition to the application for license the court will decline to grant it.

They will probably get off at Williamsburg, and drive over the route to Jamestown, and then take in the one from Norfolk to the Exposition Grounds.

Both these roads are being built by the State, assisted by the United States government, and large forces of convicts are at work on them.

The progress of road-building by convicts since the taking effect of the new law has greatly pleased the directors, and they wish to gain a better personal insight into the system. They will find no better opportunity in the State than can be had by going over the Norfolk and Williamsburg Boulevards.

The board held a meeting at the Penitentiary Monday, and the proposed trip was informally discussed, but no definite date was fixed, as the member preferred to await the opening of the weather.
